

Central Park, lightly covered by the first snowfall of the season, doubly popular as a playground for the youngsters. Above is the bank of the lake photographed at night. On the left is little Miss Ruth Coffin celebrating in proper fashion, while on the right Tony Duke was caught by the camera in a wide expanse of snow, all his own, from which to make castles, forts or just plain missiles.

Pacific & Atlantic.

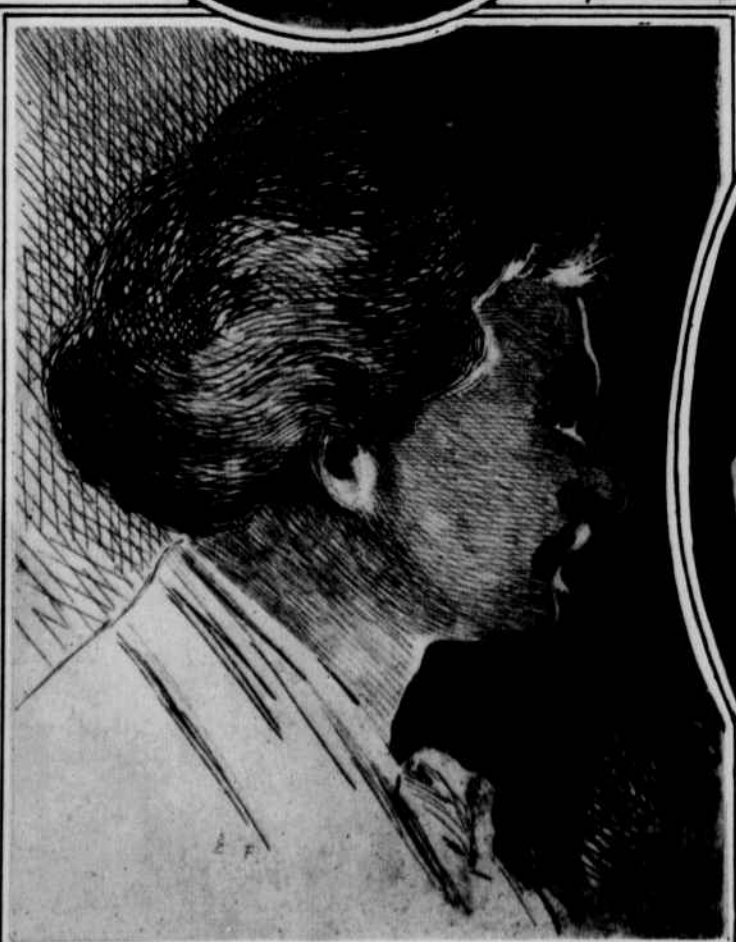

Mrs. J. M. Jones with her pet chow, Chee Kee, Jr., a triple winner at the specialty show of the Chow Club in Madison Square Garden.

Pacific & Atlantic.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. McAdoo and their children, Mary Faith, 3, and Ellen Wilson, 8, at their home in Los Angeles.

Wide World.

Pianist and patriot—a new etching by Emil Fuchs of Ignace Paderewski, famous Pole, who recently gave his first recital in five years.

A bronze bust of the Chief Oratam, Sachem of the Achkinkeshacky Indians, recently presented to the Bergen County Historical Society of Hackensack, N. J., by John Ettl, sculptor.

Sir Gilbert Parker, a guest of the Economic Club, at that organization's dinner, photographed with William C. Osborn, its president.

Kadel & Herbert.

Famous musicians honor Ole Bull—Percy Grainger, American pianist, Ignaz Friedman, Polish pianist, and Szigeti, Hungarian violinist, on a visit to the statue of the famous Norwegian violinist in Bergen, Norway.